

the company

Simply Hired (www.SimplyHired.com) is the world's largest search engine for jobs, currently indexing over four million jobs and counting. The goal for Simply Hired is to help job seekers find their next job in the simplest, most effective way possible.

market focus

Simply Hired provides job search and related services for people looking for a new or better job. We also help large and small job boards increase visibility and exposure for their job listings, as well as for companies who display jobs on their websites directly.

the job seeker's dilemma

Currently, job seekers have to go to several different places online to find all the job opportunities available to them. They have to register with multiple systems, maintain duplicate profiles and passwords, and visit each source repeatedly to check for new jobs. This process is a hassle, and makes finding the right job a real pain. People just want one place they can quickly and simply search for all the jobs that match their interests, track and monitor the jobs they like, and get notified when new jobs become available.

Simply Hired aggregates and indexes data on millions of job listings worldwide from a variety of sources, including large and small job boards, newspaper and classified listings, and directly from company websites. The result of this extensive indexing process is the largest online database of jobs on the planet.

Simply Hired users can perform quick, powerful "one-stop searches" for jobs by entering any combination of keywords and location to find relevant search results. Searchers can filter their results by company, city, or commute distance, as well as rate their results using a simple five-star rating system. Simply Hired offers the unique ability, provided via partnership with LinkedIn, to look up "who do I know™" contacts inside any company connected with any job listing.
